

What can you do with an Early Childhood Education major from SPU?

The Early Childhood Education major at Seattle Pacific University allows you to explore current research, pedagogy, and resources for designing and delivering effective Early Childhood curricula. You will gain an understanding of young students' cultural and individual differences, which will allow you to work in childcare settings and schools, or for nonprofit and child advocacy groups.

Potential occupations include:

- Child Life Specialist
- Elementary School Teacher
- Early Education Consultant
- Family Support Specialist
- Early Education Researcher
- Preschool Director
